

Spring Fashions.

Pique and cheviot were so much liked last summer for plain suits that they are to figure very extensively in the present season's best stocks.

Dotted Swiss is to be the favorite material for young ladies' dresses. It is very thin, sheer and fine, and the dots have a daintiness not usual in this grade of fabrics.

One of the leading ideas in spring cotton goods is the stripe. The lawn batistes and similar goods in this design are pronounced exceptionally pretty by the best judges.

The earliest spring dresses in cotton goods are to be made with rather plain, round skirts, some of them with lace or embroidery trimming, others with flate braid or cotton galloon in many rows.

It is an interesting study to watch the improvement, from year to year, in the printing and wearing of cotton fabrics. Some of the new pieces are color studies worth the attention of an artist.

Tailor-made dresses are those that come under this designation, are either plain to the utmost severity, or rather elaborately done up with velvet and moire.

Ginghams, zephyrs and cambrics show flower stripes alternating with those in solid colors. Some of them are as exquisitely finished as one could imagine, and suggest old time brocades in their daintiness.

The silk striped cotton fabrics are much liked, and make very attractive semi dressy costumes for young girls and misses. Young ladies like them for their nobbiest morning dresses, and occasionally a style is thought dainty enough for informal evening wear.

Fine French organdie, printed in floral pattern, is to be a favorite summer material. There are patterns with black ground with yellow violets, which flower, by the way, seems to be one of the particular favorites, also violets in all shades of purple and heliotrope.

Lace striped batistes are to be among the prettiest and most expensive of summer cotton dresses. They cost rather too much, however, for ordinary purses, and women who have limited means will scarcely find them practical. There are, however, only a few of them, and exclusive styles usually find ready purchasers.

Stylish waists or cotton dresses are made in surplus shape or after any of the popular blouse ideas. Fitted linings are sometimes used, and over these the material is drawn down to the waist line. Many of these waists have the outside and lining joined only at the shoulder seams and under the arm.

A popular style for a dressy waist is made over a fitted lining. There is a shirred collar, the shirring done on fine cords and the fullness from waist line to bust, is also shirred on cord. When the gathers are adjusted, they are closely run down to the lining to keep them in place, the sleeves are full at the top, a band around the arms, just above the elbow, is shirred in to match the rest of the garment, and the cuffs are similarly finished.

HERE AND THERE.

Monroe City, Mo., has boomed the undertaking business to the extent of 200 burials in the past six years, an average of 33 1-3 deaths a year. In 1893 the number only reached 24.

The Brooks Jewelry company, located at 417 North Fourth street, St. Louis, assigned last Saturday. The liabilities exceed the assets by $16,000.

Tables compiled by the actuary of the state insurance department show that the last year has been an unprofitable one for fire insurance companies.

Miss Ollie Newman, of Swan, Iowa, has instituted suit against Rev. D. C. Gates, a minister of the Christian church, and others for seduction and criminal malpractice. The plaintiff asks damages in the sum of $20,000.

ANOTHER fire occurred at the world's fair grounds, in Chicago, on Wednesday of last week about 10 o'clock, a. m. in which the grand colossus between the agricultural building and machinery hall was destroyed. The blaze was the work of incendiaries.

J. F. MITCHELL has purchased the Springfield Evening Leader.
